DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1, 2 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Watabe (U.S. Patent No. 6,642,599 B1).

In re claims 1 and 7, Watabe (esp. Fig. 1) discloses a semiconductor element and method of manufacturing the same, comprising:

first semiconductor region (1) of a first conductive type; a second semiconductor region (5) of a second conductive type which is formed on said first semiconductor region (1); a third semiconductor region (13) of a first conductive type which is formed in a predetermined surface area of said second semiconductor region (5); a fourth semiconductor region (11) of a first conductive type which is formed in a surface area of said third semiconductor region (13) and has a higher impurity concentration than said third semiconductor region (13) has; and a fifth semiconductor region (9) which is formed in a surface area of said second semiconductor region (5) so as to surround said third semiconductor region (13),

said third semiconductor region (13) has a central portion which surrounds said fourth semiconductor region (11), and a peripheral portion (curved outer portions) which surrounds said central portion;

said central portion is formed to have a depth from a surface of said second semiconductor region (5) that is deeper than that of said peripheral portion; and said second semiconductor region (5) arranged right under said central portion has a smaller amount of electric charges than an amount of electric charges of said second semiconductor region (5) arranged right under said peripheral portion, because said second semiconductor region (5) arranged right under said central portion has a thickness thinner than that of said second semiconductor region (3) arranged right under said peripheral portion.

In re claim 2, Watabe discloses the device of claim 1, further comprising: a drain electrode (53a) formed on said fourth semiconductor region (11); a source electrode (53b) formed on said fifth semiconductor region (9); a gate insulation film (19) covering said second semiconductor region (5) between said third semiconductor region (13) and said fifth semiconductor region (9); and a gate electrode (21a) formed on said gate insulation film.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 3-6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
4. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:
 - a. In re claim 3, the semiconductor device comprising where at least the second semiconductor region which is present right under the sixth semiconductor region has a same thickness as that of the second semiconductor region which is present right under the claimed peripheral portion.
